The Most Cinematic Coastline in Ireland

Slea Head Drive on foot — beehive huts, ringforts, the Three Sisters cliffs, the Blasket Islands offshore.

A Night in Dingle Town

Ireland"s most beloved harbour town — traditional music every night of the year, an exceptional food scene, dolphins in the bay, and a streetscape that"s been quietly…

Annascaul and Tom Crean"s Pub

Day 2 finishes in the inland village of Annascaul — home of Antarctic explorer Tom Crean and the legendary South Pole Inn he opened on his return from the Heroic Age.

Finish at the Edge of Europe

Dunquin sits at the westernmost tip of mainland Ireland, with the abandoned Blasket Islands rising offshore.

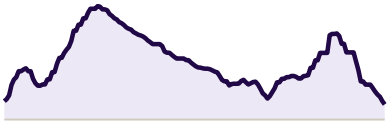

Day by day

1 Arrival in Camp. Arrive in Camp and settle into your first accommodation — a small village on the eastern shoulder of the Dingle Peninsula and the traditional starting point for the Dingle Way. Camp has a couple of friendly local pubs (Junction Bar and Ashes are…

Overnight Camp

DAY 2

17.8 km · 407 m up · Moderate

Camp to Annascaul

Your first walking day, west out of Camp through traditional sheep country to Annascaul. The trail rises gradually onto the southern shoulder of the Slieve Mish Mountains, with sweeping views back across Tralee Bay and forward into the heart of the peninsula. Quiet boreens, stone walls, occasional hawthorn — Kerry as it actually is. Annascaul itself is a small inland village best known as the home of Tom Crean, the Antarctic explorer who served on the Discovery, Terra Nova and Endurance expeditions. The pub he opened on his return — the South Pole Inn — still pours pints under his portrait, and is the…

Overnight Annascaul

DAY 3

22.5 km · 387 m up · Challenging

Annascaul to Dingle

The big day — a long, beautiful crossing south-west to Dingle town. The trail climbs gently over the southern flank of the Slieve Mish Mountains, then descends gradually through farmland and the village of Lispole into Dingle harbour. The first sight of the harbour as you come down off the high ground is one of those Irish moments that genuinely stays with you. Dingle town is Ireland"s most beloved harbour town — traditional music every night, exceptional restaurants, dolphins in the bay, and the kind of streetscape that has been quietly cared for over decades. Tonight, find a seat at Dick…

Overnight Dingle

DAY 4

21.3 km · 373 m up · Moderate

Dingle to Dunquin (Slea Head)

Your final walking day, and the showpiece of the trip. West out of Dingle along the coast through Ventry, then onto the famous Slea Head Drive — beehive huts, ringforts, the Three Sisters cliffs, and the long sweep of Coumeenoole Beach where Ryan"s Daughter was filmed. The light here is what brought David Lean to Kerry in the first place. You finish in Dunquin — the westernmost village in Europe, with the abandoned Blasket Islands rising white out of the Atlantic offshore. The Blasket Centre on the cliffs is well worth a visit if you have time, and Krugers" pub down by the harbour ramp is one of the…

Overnight Dunquin

5 Departure from Dunquin. A leisurely morning. A last full Irish breakfast. A last look at the Atlantic. Dunquin is roughly 75 minutes by road from Tralee station and a similar drive to Kerry Airport. We can arrange a private transfer for the morning if you"d prefer — just let us know with your booking.

GENTLE — MODERATE — CHALLENGING

18 to 23 km	1,167	3
a day	m of climbing in total	walking days

Walkers who want the Dingle Peninsula without committing two weeks. Five days, three walking days, every important highlight covered. Camp, Annascaul, Dingle town and Slea Head in one short, well-paced trip. Couples and friends planning a long weekend with substance. The pace is moderate — 17–22 km per walking day on a well-marked trail. Long-ish days, but on rolling rather than mountainous ground. The villages along the way are sociable, with traditional music in Dingle nearly every night.
